Anna Akhmatova by Natan Altman (1914) Anna Akhmatova (1889 - 1966) lived through the worst years of the 20th century in one of the worst locations in which to be a poet unwilling to play the role of a trained parrot for the ruthless and murderous apes running the country. Born in Odessa, she grew up in the small town just outside of St. Petersburg where the Tsar's summer residence was located.

Poems of Akhmatova by Anna Akhmatova - Goodreads

Anna Akhmatova (1889-1966) is considered Russia's greatest modern poet. She published her first book of poems in 1912, and in the same year founded the Acmeist movement with her husband, the poet Gumilev. Her intense, highly personal love lyrics were later attacked as anti-revolutionary, and in 1925 her poetry was banned. Gumilev was shot in [...]

Requiem: How a poem resisted Stalin - BBC Culture

This intriguing poem, 'Lot's Wife', by Anna Akhmatova, translated by Richard Wilbur, takes an age-old story that has been passed down from generation to generation and tells it from a new perspective, that of Lot's wife. The Genesis story of Lot's family is told practically, without giving much insight into emotions or thoughts of the people involved.
